After 44 years, Manor's only Librarian steps down...almost

There aren't many graduates of Manor Junior College who didn't know Sister Anne while they were here. As anyone will tell you, to know her is to love her. Although she remains on a part-time basis, Sister Anne retired this year as full-time Librarian. We sat down to talk to her about her years at Manor.

Manor has seen its share of changes since its inception in 1947. One staple through them all has been Librarian Sister Mary Anne Gorniowsky, OSBM. During her tenure, Manor has undergone three building constructions, inaugurated eight presidents, become a co-ed college, and more than doubled enrollment. There have been 43 commencements, four Middle States visits, two anniversary celebrations, and countless other events and ceremonies. Quite simply, Sister Anne has seen it all at Manor. This summer brought yet another change at the College as Manor's first - and only - librarian retired from the position she's held for nearly half a century.

A very shy Sister Anne reluctantly agreed to an interview for this piece, saying modestly, "People might remember me because it's a small college." Those in the Manor community know better.

"Sister Anne has been a friend, confidante, resource, and person of prayer for thousands of students," said College President Sister Mary Cecilia, OSBM. "She knows more students and is in contact with more graduates than anyone on campus."

Adds Academic Dean Sally Mydlowec: "Sister Anne's dedication, boundless energy and cheerful disposition are well known at Manor."

Sister Anne began her career at Manor in 1954, when there were roughly 300 enrolled students and the College shared library facilities with Saint Basil Academy. The library was located in the Academy's residence hall, which is now part of the Basilian Motherhouse complex. When the library moved from the Motherhouse complex to its current location, Sister Anne was responsible for moving the entire collection to the new facility.

"When alumni come back to visit, it makes you feel like you made a difference."

As the college academic programs increased and changed, it was Sister Anne's responsibility to see that the holdings reflected these changes. Sister Anne was instrumental in establishing the Law Library and for moving the Ukrainian collection to its current location in the library. She beautified the library with art works from various Manor exhibits, and because of her love of nature, brought plants and flowers into the library. It was not unusual for her to work 50-55 hours a week, including weekends.

For many years, Sister Anne lived in Manor's residence hall, helping students adjust to college life. During snowstorms, when students ran out of food, she would struggle through snow drifts to the Motherhouse to provide milk and sandwiches. While in the dorms, she befriended many resident students who were homesick and helped them overcome their loneliness. Many evenings she could be found at the Grotto of the Blessed Virgin, remembering the needs of these students.

"Whenever alumni return to campus, they always ask about Sister Anne," said Sister Cecilia. "Visits from alumni are one of her favorite things."

Sister Anne attests: "It's always special when alumni come back to visit. They come from all over, even as far as Japan, and it makes you feel like you made a difference."

Although she's decided to retire, Sister Anne intends to remain a part of campus life by continuing to "help out" in the library, where she can still locate every book without using the card catalog.

"I guess you never really retire. I'll work (in the Library) as long as I'm needed and wanted," she says with a smile. And with that, she was off to help another Manor student find a book.

Alumni turn out for Second Annual Social

Even though it was a beautiful fall day outside, nearly 50 alumni of Manor Junior College opted to spend Sunday afternoon, October 25, at the Holywood Tavern, meeting -- or catching up with -- former classmates and faculty members at the Second Annual Alumni Social.

Sponsored by Manor's Alumni Association, the '98 Social improved on last year's successful event, boasting a significant increase in the number of attendees. A number of Manor's academic programs were represented, including EFDA, Early Childhood Education, Liberal Arts, Computer Science, Office Management and Paralegal.

Our roving photographer caught up with some of this year's guests. If you missed out this year, look for the Third Annual Alumni Social next year -- maybe you'll see your face on these pages next year.

Manor's "Field of Dreams" Debuts

There was added excitement on campus this fall as a brand new soccer field gave Manor a true home field advantage. The yet-to-be named field is located beside the Mother of Perpetual Help Hall Academic Building and serves as the home field for both the men's and women's soccer teams.

Designed by Shearon Environmental Design Company, the field meets Division I requirements and will allow Manor to host tournament and championship play.

Q & A with your new Alumni Association President, Ellen McCloskey '71

Q: What are your goals for the Alumni Association in the next two years?
A: "I'm looking forward to building on what former president, Marylou Delizia, started. She did a great job getting more alumni involved in activities like the Golf Outing and Alumni Social. I'm also excited about how far Manor has come in the business community. Being named Nonprofit of the Year is a great honor for the College and an opportunity to show how important we are in the community."

Q: Why did you accept this position?
A: "I believe in Manor and the alumni. We can help Manor to grow through our positive words and efforts."

Q: How do you answer alumni who ask, "What's in it for me?"
A: "We're planning more activities and events for alumni than ever before -like the trip to see Lion King on Broadway. Our web-site also has a lot of useful information for alumni and we're continuing to develop that."

Q: What's the best way for alumni to help their alma mater?
A: "Alumni support in anyway, whether financial or simply through volunteering, is critical in keeping Manor ranked as high as it is. Manor has always had great programs which have helped many get to where they are. Their support is simply a way to say, thanks."

Q: If alumni have questions, concerns or suggestions, what should they do?
A: "I want our alumni to feel like we're a family and that I welcome their ideas and input. They can call me directly at 215/576-2521. If I'm not there, I promise I'll return their call."

Nick Ladomirak '97

The past few years have not been easy ones for Nick Ladomirak (Business '97). Besides starting his own electrical contracting business in Bristol, PA, Ladomirak attended Manor part-time and earned a degree in business management. "I already had the technical training, and I needed the business expertise," said Ladomirak. Adding to his already hectic schedule, Ladomirak was preparing for the state exam to become a professional engineer, which he recently passed. Now a certified engineer himself, Ladomirak's hard work is beginning to pay off. "My certification as a professional engineer, combined with the recent business training at Manor and my experience as a licensed electrician, gives me the competitive edge that no ordinary electrician has," says Ladomirak, who credits a surge in business this year to training and perserverance. "Anyone who owns a business knows what a struggle it can be, especially at the beginning, but I never let the hard times deter me," says Ladomirak.
